

I think I'm kinda gay...

And that scares the shit out of me.

I know my parents wouldn't actually throw me out or abuse me the way that some parents would, and I'm extremely grateful for that, but I also know they wouldn't be comfortable with it. They aren't bad people, they just aren't as open-minded as they think they are. And I don't think I could or would want to deal with the backhanded comments and "accidental" insults that would come my way if I was ever to come out. I'm scared because even though it shouldn't be a big deal, it is to me, and I'm sick of feeling like a disappointment already.

Weirdly, the only people I could imagine coming out to are my fandom friends, most of whom I barely know.

So thank you to for being so indiscriminately kind and welcoming, HIMYM/NPH fandom, I wish everyone was like you guys.

